PROFILE

My relationship with the tech world started at a very young age, having received my first computer when I was 8 years old. At the time, I only used it to play video games but later that passion continued until high school when I started to have programming disciplines. During my high school years, I realized that I liked programming, but I would like to merge it with the world of marketing and management. For this very reason I went looking for a course that brought together these three worlds. And here I am! Being also a big fan of music events, I intend to take a Masters in Management and Event Planning, in order to connect all these worlds that I love so much.
